

MEET THE TEAM 2011

Nani Terrana & Margaret Holland Newcomb have a way with words, so we are letting them have their way with our Auction Catalog! While Nani waxes poetic over each item description turned in, Margaret makes sure all her i's are dotted, t's are crossed and that we are grammatically correct. Not that she isn't creative...Margaret may teach English in the daytime, but paints beautiful works of art in her free time, as can be remembered from last year's 6th Grade Class Project! Nani's free time involves lots of family activities for her three kids, and looks forward to a good workout when she has some time to herself (and we look forward to some fun item descriptions by them both!).

PROCUREMENT CHALLENGES: ONLY 2 TO GO!

Congratulations are in order for Class 3B, Mr. Harris' Classroom, Winners of the November Procurement Challenge!

With only two more challenges yet to be met, here are some timely tips:

Package items together to make a themed basket, or great evening out! It's always kind of fun if there is more than one...

Retail is on sale right now! Make the best of it!

Offer Ad Space or Sponsorships as an alternative to donating an item. Creativity Rocks...use it to create an item worth remembering!

Unite with other friends and families for a festive feature: Progressive Dinners, Spa Day, Boat Trips, or Beach Bonfires!

Rest easy...we are almost done. Only two months left to procure!

Everyone loves something! Procure what you would like to buy. You'll find it will get you a little more in the mood for Auction 2011!

Man up...it can be hard to ask, but be brave and just go for it!

Even little things can be big. We can put together those odds and ends with other donated items to make a great package for our event.

Now is the time to get those forms in. Sooner is better for everyone!

Talents: Can you Teach or Tutor? Cut or Cook? Sing or Saw? Babysit or Bake? Take your talents to the auction and offer them up as an item!
